

WHY SHOULD YOU PLAN YOUR ESTATE?

To best address this issue, consider the following questions:

- What will happen if you die and DON'T have an estate plan?
- What will happen to your home?
- What will happen to your personal belongings?
- What will happen to your spouse, children, and other loved ones?
- If you become disabled, who will take care of you?

Regardless of our financial and marital status, we all have possessions that we cherish. If you were to pass on and did not have an estate plan, your prized and hard-earned possessions would come under the control of a court. Your loved ones would have no say in how they are distributed. By taking the time now to plan your estate, you can ensure that your property will be distributed as you wish.

If you have minor children, you can take measures today to ensure that they will be well cared for in the future by someone who loves them.

You can also help to save your loved ones considerable time, expense, and inconvenience.
